

Norse Mythology: Creation to Ragnarok

Sept. 3-5, 2010

Come and join us as a listener at Taylor Lake, as storytellers from across the country gather for another epic week-end. The Norse Gods and their stories are embedded in the imaginations, literature and language of all European cultures. The stories are strange, fierce, compelling and even sometimes funny! The opportunity to be immersed in one long story is very rich!

Approximate Telling Schedule

7:00 – 8:30	Friday night
9:30 – 6:00	Saturday
9:30 - 1:00	Sunday

(Tellers and listeners arrive between 4:00 & 6:00 Friday PM)

- There are short breaks every hour to hour and a half and good breaks for lunch.
- Conversation abounds!
- Participants are expected to stay the whole weekend as it is the ability to immerse ourselves, audience and tellers together, in the whole of the story that makes this experience unique.

Accommodation. As before, listeners, (tellers too) are invited to come with tents and pitch them in our garden by beautiful Taylor Lake. There is some space available in the house, some beds and some floor space for mattresses but this is very limited so speak up for it soon! As well there are bed and breakfasts in the neighbourhood that would be glad to welcome you. (www.almonte.com or call 613-256-2055 or look up Ontario Bed and Breakfasts) Taylor Lake is 1 hour south of Ottawa and 10 minutes south of Almonte.

Food and Drink: As in previous years food and drink are potluck and if previous years are anything to go by the food and drink will be plentiful and splendid. Potluck is not organized and seems to work just fine without. Jan and I provide coffee, teas and juice. Meals are shared in the outdoors and refrigerator space is seriously limited, so bring a cooler. Most meals are pick-up, but for Saturday night supper we sit down altogether around long, candle-lit tables. Beer and wine etc are welcome. You will need to bring plates, cups utensils etc.

Fee: $50.00 (covers cost of tent, tables, toilet and chairs): To confirm your place as a listener, fill out the attached registration form and return it with your cheque to:
